“ When Abe and his brother came to Pueblo, their friend, Julian, found a new life with these friends. Coffee at McDonald's was the light of their day, joking, laughing, meeting Alamosans who were coming to Pueblo for doctor appointments.

Abe, just like his brother, Leroy, had a heart of gold, the soul of a saint with a tincture of mischief mixed in.

Abe will be dearly missed and Julian and I give our biggest condolences to the family for their loss. --Julian and Sherry Romero

“ Abe Jaramillo was a great man, he had a great sense of humor and was just a good man. I remember going to Abe's Place as a young woman and no matter what he never failed to ask for my siblings. Tito Chacon my eldest brother and Abe were best friends. My daughter and son-inlaw were his neighbor in Pueblo, not knowing who he was. Abe asked my daughter as they would walk there dogs by his house. he stopped her one day and they started talking. Abe tells her you look like someone i knew in the valley. my daughters tells him my parents are from the valley. he was shocked when she told him who her parents were. Prax and Vonnie Montoya. my daughter was very sad to hear of his passing as they had just got to know him. Abe you will be missed by our familia and my siblings as well. May you rest in Peace amigo. you have gained your wings and they are waiting for you in Paradise.

Abe was a good kind man. My brothers would play pool at Abe's place, occasionally a bully would pick on my brothers...Abe would put a stop to it. Rest in Peace Abe, I pray God comforts your family.
