“ One of the funniest memories I have with my Grandpa was going to Alamosa after church along with my Grandma . I remember we stopped at Sonic to have lunch. We ordered and they were taking a while to bring our meal. I remember my Grandpa getting impatient and he hit the red order button and when they asked (Welcome to Sonic, can I take your order?) His response was "I ordered two brown bag specials, I gotta go" I remember trying to hold my laugh in all the way home.

“ Alfredo used to come over to visit us and walk into the house without knocking. One day I seen him drive up and I knew he was going to walk in the house without knocking so, I hid behind the door and when he walked in, I jumped out from behind the door and scared the daylights out of Alfredo. He grabbed his heart and said I scared the daylights out of him saying that his heart was hurting. I never tried to scare him again!! P.S. I don't think his heart was hurting....
